

Antonis Theodorides is a Cyprus-based aviation executive with more than three decades of experience across airline management, aircraft leasing, private aviation, and aviation business development. He is the Chief Executive Officer of Q4 Aviation Ltd, an international aviation brokerage specializing in aircraft sales and acquisitions, ACMI and wet leasing, private jet charters, and tailored aviation solutions for airlines, corporations, and private clients worldwide.

Throughout his career, Antonis has held senior management positions with leading airlines, including Gulf Air and Aegean Airlines, and has played a key role in airline start-ups and aviation operations in Cyprus. He is also the Vice President of the Flight Safety Foundation – Southeast Europe – Cyprus, where he actively promotes aviation safety, regional cooperation, and professional education.

Known for his extensive global network and relationship-driven approach, Antonis is passionate about connecting aviation professionals, creating strategic partnerships, and supporting the sustainable growth of the aviation industry across Europe, the Middle East, and beyond.